Safety Tips: Preventing Burglaries & Protecting Your Home

Some of these recommendations require the help of trusted neighbors. Alert and concerned neighbors are your best protection against crime in your neighborhood.

A vacant house – or one that appears to be vacant – is an appealing target to a burglar. This is true during the work day when everyone may be at work or school, or during a vacation, a weekend away from home, or a business trip. You can alleviate day-to-day worries and make a trip more carefree if you will take a few simple steps to reduce the possibility that your home will be burglarized or vandalized while you are gone.

Although you should always be aware of leaving windows and doors closed and locked whenever you will be out of the home, there are a number of things to consider when you're going away for a weekend or longer. Install good locks on doors and windows. It's true that an intruder who really wants to get into your house probably can find a way, but most burglaries are crimes of opportunity committed by amateurs. This means the more difficult you make it for someone to enter your house, the more likely it is a burglar will not make the attempt – or at least that an alert neighbor will see or hear the burglar.

Mark your valuables with an identification number to ward off burglars and thieves and to make your valuables identifiable if they should be lost or stolen. To most thieves, marked property is not as valuable because the "fence" won't pay as much for it. Marked property is good evidence in court. You may also want to take pictures or do a home video taping of your valuables to aid in their identification if they should be lost or stolen. (If you take pictures, use a business address when you bring in the film for developing and pay for it with cash.)

Install motion detector lights on the outside of your home. Use electronic timers on inside lights and photoelectric switches on the outside lights. A week or two before you leave set your timers so you can establish a pattern while you are still home. There are even timers available that will vary the on/off times. Occasionally have a radio or TV turned on.

Don't leave valuables where they can be easily seen from the windows. Video equipment, TV's, stereos, gun collections, etc. should be stored in basements, closets, on the second floor, or left with a friend or neighbor. Equipping a storage closet with a good deadbolt lock makes a safe storage area too.

Don't let your travel plans be widely known. Try to arrange for a house sitter, but if you can't, provide your immediate neighbors with a recipe card with the information shown on the last page and ask a trusted neighbor to keep this information private.

Call the Sheriff's Department or your local police department to register your home for extra patrol. Typically, a squad will drive by your residence to check on things. The Village of Allouez has a House Check Request form that can be filled out for this extra patrol.

Green Bay Metro Fire Department-Allouez Station

Many people ask if they should have a portable home fire extinguisher. The answer is yes and you should know how to use one! Research has shown that if someone has never operated and had proper training on the use of a fire extinguisher, they most likely will not use one if a real life situation.

The acronym PASS is used to help people remember the correct steps to operate a fire extinguisher;

- Pull the safety pin by twisting and removing it from the handle.
- Aim the extinguisher at the base of the flames.
- Squeeze the handle to expel the extinguishing agent.
- Sweep the nozzle side to side at the base of the fire.

Here are a few more tips:

- One of the most common mistakes when using portable fire extinguishers is overestimating the size of fire that the extinguisher can handle.
- Do not ever use an extinguisher if you have to position yourself where the fire is between yourself and your point of escape.
- Purchase and use a tested (UL or FM) rated extinguisher of the ABC type. This is the most general-purpose extinguisher and is designed to help control fires of three types. Normal combustibles, (paper, cloth, wood, etc.) ignitable liquids, (gas, lighter fluid, oil, etc.) and small electrical fires.
- Cooking fires in a pan are easily extinguished by placing a lid or a cookie sheet over the pan. A home extinguisher might push burning grease onto walls or cupboards so use caution!
- Place an extinguisher in a place that is easily accessible and visible.

Knowing when to use or when not to use a fire extinguisher can be a tough decision. If you have any doubts, get out and call your local fire department.
